No 'turkey day' game this year?

I've been hearing rumors that the traditional Thanksgiving Day Turkey Game between Los Gatos and Campbell (high school) will not be played on Thanksgiving but instead on Thursday, Nov. 16 at Los Gatos. It's Campbell's turn to host this year's event and I'm sure the whole city of Campbell will be in an uproar when this terrible news comes out.

S.P.C. MEMBER

Editor's note: According to Randy Frey, sports editor of the Los Gatos Times Observer, this year's game may break with a 40 plus year tradition IF either Los Gatos or Campbell is in contention for the league championship. The reason is that the West Valley Athletic League is reentering the CCS playoffs this year. Playoff games begin Saturday, Nov. 25, two days after the holiday. According to a member of the WVAL Board of Managers, if either team is in contention the game will be played the week before Thanksgiving Day at Los Gatos at night so as many people as possible can attend.

Editor's note: Those 14 pages were it . . . for last week. The culprit is the paper mill strikes.

For the explanation see page 4 of today's paper.

I can't believe the City of Campbell would be so cruel as to allow senior citizens to live smack dab next to a school. And it's a junior high school at that. (County housing authority plans for a 200-unit complex next to Morgan Park). I'm speaking from experience because I live right near a school. I just hope no one at the apartments is sick and needs to sleep during the day. They sure won't be able to.

They're talking about moving the San Tomas kids to Capri. Where are they going to stay? I understand new houses are being built near San Tomas. Where are these kids going to go to school?

Editor's note: The latest staff recommendation is that San Tomas follow the original closure schedule for September, 1979. Rejected suitor may fight case

Campbell's Tom Horsley doesn't agree with the small claims court judge who ruled last week that he couldn't collect damages from a young San Francisco waitress who broke a date with him.

The case, which received wide spread attention, was brought by the 30 year old local man to recover the costs of that broken date and, according to Horsley, to make her accountable.

"I wanted her to act more like a woman and less like a girl," Horsley explained last Friday.

The judge took a dim view of the unusual case from the start, Horsley claimed. And the judge later ruled that a social commitment is not a contract.

"My attorney says the judge erred in his decision," Horsley said, adding he is now considering filing a Writ of Mandate in San Francisco superior court to challenge that decision.

Joe Agostinho, 56 Alice ave., looks in marvel over neighbor George Maxwell's banana squash plant. Abundant rains and hot summer days provided a bumper crop for most Campbell gardeners. Maxwell, however, is not impressed. "It's only half grown," he insists. This week temperatures neared 100 degrees and the forecast was for more of the same. (Photography by Ed Souza)

Downtowners want a change

DOWNTOWN business owners and merchants would like to see Campbell avenue changed back to a two-way street.

This was the general feeling of the close to 50 people who met for a Task Force '78 meeting last week at the Campbell library.

According to Vern Lamar, chairman of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce committee, that proposal will be coming before the City Council in the next few weeks along with a second request; that Central avenue be reopened at Civic Center drive.

Plans for downtown Campbell avenue have changed several times since the loop street concept was adopted by the city several years ago. After completion of the south loop (Orchard City drive) and before the second street was constructed, Campbell avenue was converted to a one-way westbound street between Railway avenue and Third street. When Civic Center drive was opened that was changed to one-way eastbound.

DOWNTOWN merchants haven't been happy with either design and have complained their business has dropped significantly since the loop streets opened.

Access is one problem, according to Lamar. Another is the street pattern.

"There was general agreement that they (the owners) would like to see Campbell avenue two-way," Lamar explained, "and if possible to open up Central avenue."

It's possible to make downtown Campbell avenue two-way, according to Public Works Director Joe Elliott. "There are several ways it can be done," Elliott said, estimating the cost to be "moderate to expensive" depending on the plan. One spot that can't be opened, though, is the Campbell avenue juncture with the two loop streets just east of the railroad tracks.

THE SECOND proposal, opening up Central avenue, isn't expected to get much official support.

The City Council voted to close off that street in front of City Hall and the library to cut down on commuter traffic using it for a shortcut from Hamilton avenue to the Bascom-Campbell intersection.

The closure appears to have done its job, Elliott said, estimating that traffic has gone down by 30 to 40 percent on other parts of Central since the closure.

Traffic questions

Ainsley EIR rejected

THE LATEST proposal for the 60-plus acre development at Hamilton and Bascom hit a snag last week as the San Jose Planning Department rejected the environmental impact report (EIR).

The traffic element of that report left a lot of questions to be answered and Campbell staffers shar San Jose's concern.

The city received a copy of the EIR three days before the project was scheduled for a hearing before San Jose planners.

Latest plan for the Ainsley property includes 15 acres of commercial development (150,000 square feet of businesses), 10 tennis courts, 7 acres of office development (100,000 square feet) and 750 plus or minus residential units.

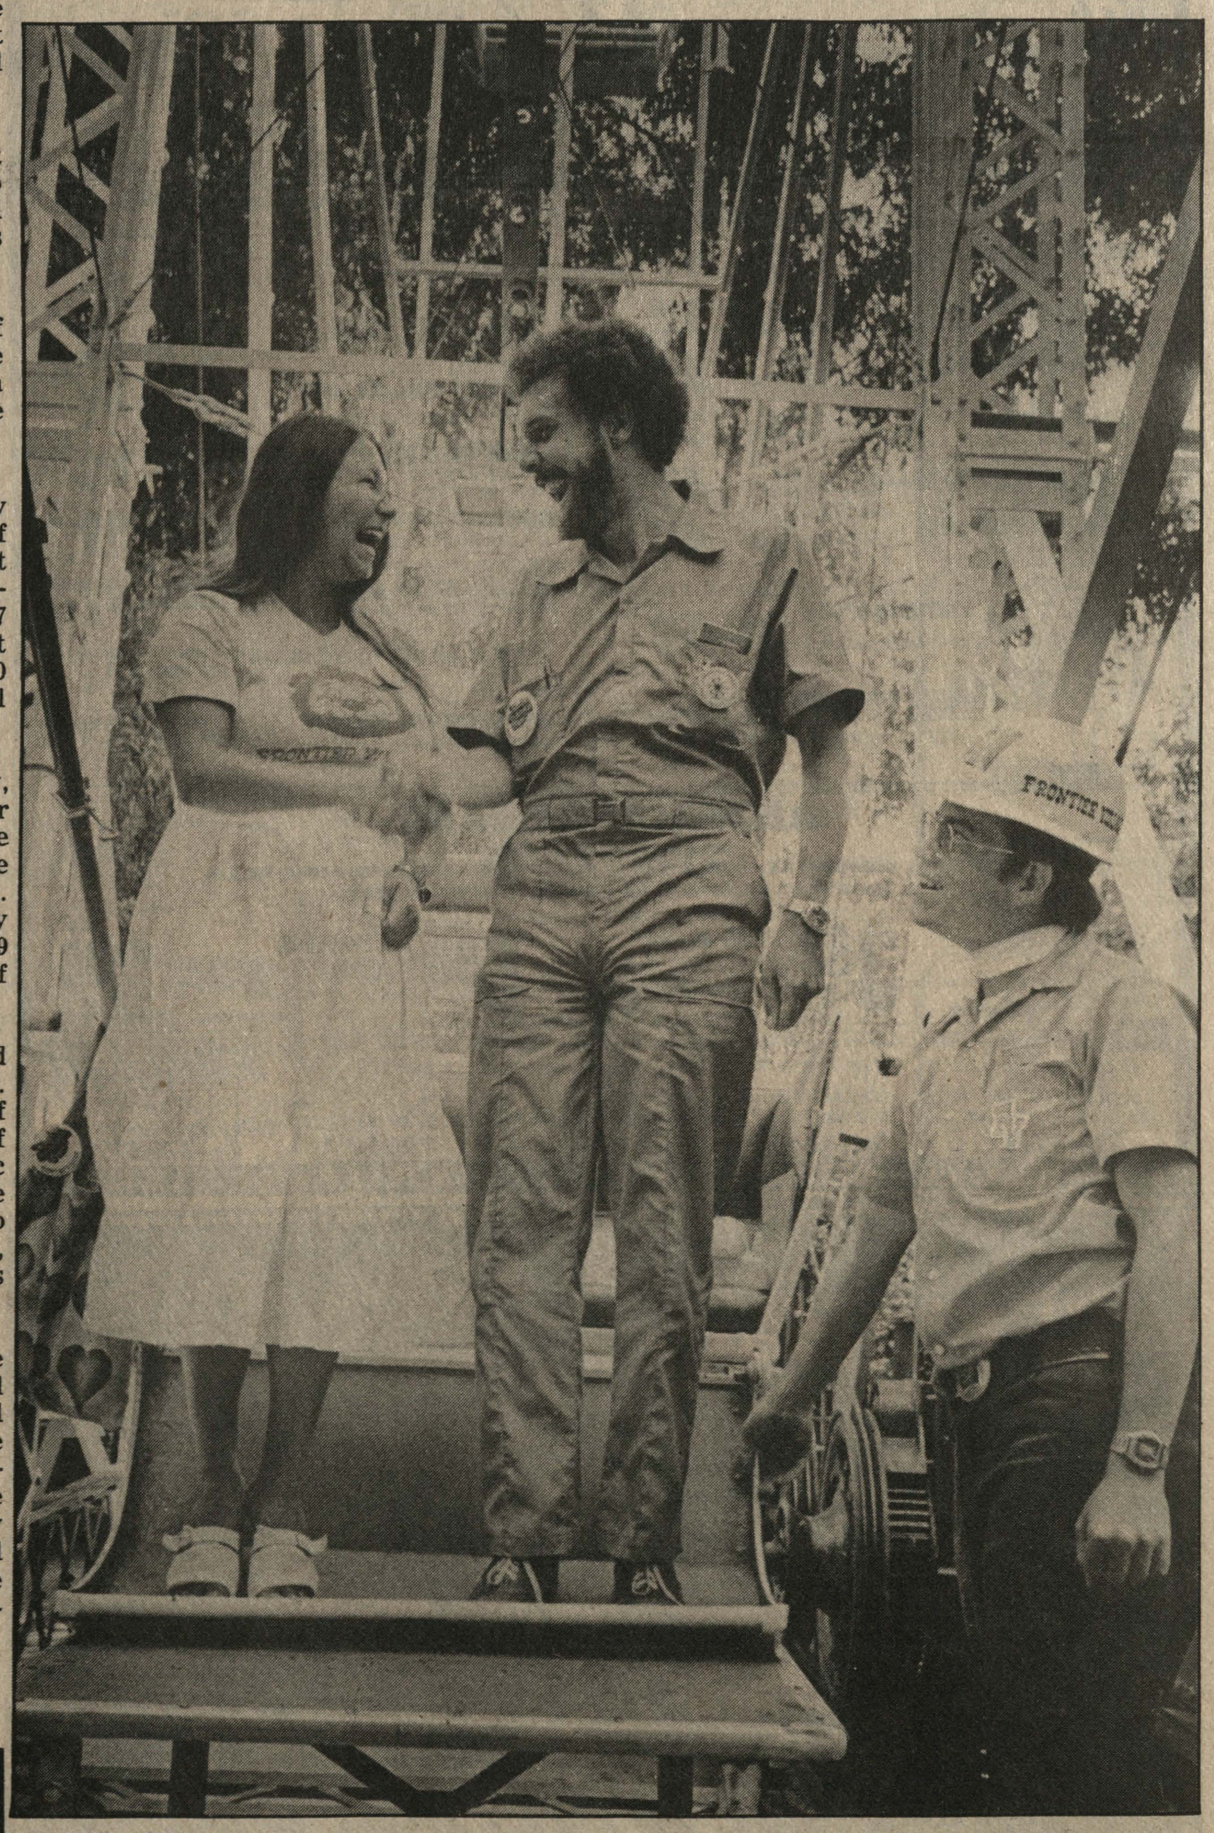
According to Keith Manley, assistant civil engineer for Campbell, those 750 units are substantially more than the number originally proposed. At that time 151 single family units were planned with 399 multiple units for a total of 579.

"THEY HAVE now added more units," Manley said. "That plus a number of questions has led the City of San Jose to reject the traffic element of the EIR." While Campbell has no authority to approve or reject the project, Manley added, the city shares those concerns.

Since plans for that large development were announced more than a year ago local homeowners' groups have protested. They say the additional traffic generated by the development, on an already traffic-choked street, will have a serious impact on the surrounding residential neighborhoods.

"Our concern is that the traffic element did not represent the development as it is now proposed," Manley explained of the latest proposal.

Both city staffs also have questions about trip generation and existing traffic volume figures in the EIR.



Exuberant ferrisnauts, Rena Clark and Jeff Block, congratulate each other as they step off the ferris wheel that, last Monday, won them $500 and a world's record. The ferrisnauts spent 37 days on the Frontier Village ride, beating the previous record by one week. Block, 21, a Campbell Union School District substitute custodian, says the experience was a good one. "I helped P.A.L., I met a new girlfriend, and I'm in the book (Guiness Book of World Records)," he said. A total of $5,209 was raised for the Police Athletic League by the two who revolved around the wheel 29,744 times and an estimated 353.9 miles. Block noted that his future plans are to rest a few months, then go for a new world's record on a merry-go-round during Christmas vacation.

You should see the other guy, though, he broke his finger. Miller leaves his Campbell post after six years and last Friday his co-workers gave him a farewell luncheon.

Parkside senior complex

Youth commission opposes development

John D. Morgan Park.

At their last meeting commissioners unanimously voted to voice their concern to the City Council about plans by the county housing authority to build the housing complex at that site. They say they feel the plan is inappropriate because of its proximity to a junior high school and the long distance to shopping areas for residents.

The Campbell Youth Advisory Commission is the second city group to oppose the 200-unit senior citizen complex under consideration for a 4-plus acre parcel adjacent to Earlier, the Parks and Recreation Commission also went on record in opposition. In addition to concern for senior housing next to a junior high school, parks commissioners said there is a serious need for additional parking.

A third city commission will also be discussing the proposal tonight. Civic Improvement Commissioners meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chamber, 75 N. Central ave. The housing plan is on their agenda.

'Music hanging by fingernails'

Latest school budget didn't sit well with three of the Campbell elementary trustees

By CHUCK HILDEBRAND

CAMPBELL UNION SCHOOL District Superintendent Walt Hauss' proposed 1978-79 budget, which included cuts in the music and custodial departments, didn't sit well with at least three of the five members of the district board of trustees at their meeting last Wednesday.

Trustees Gordon Abbott, Robert King and George Baker voted against the adoption of Hauss' preliminary budget, although King and Baker eventually relented after expressing dissatisfaction with the music and custodial trimming.

The trustees set August 24 as the date for their next budget study session and August 31 for the next public meeting on the subject. Alterations in the budget submitted by Hauss are likely before the board adopts its final budget (by September 7; according to state law).

HAUSS' BUDGET CALLED for cuts totalling $1.5 million, and was submitted to the trustees for their inspection just 24 hours before the meeting, much to the trustees' consternation.

The budget called for the elimination of 13 full-time custodial positions, saving $140,991.

It also suggested that two instrumental music teaching positions be dropped, that purchases of music supplies be cut by 50 percent and that replacement of damaged or outmoded equipment be discontinued. Total savings with those moves were estimated at just over $50,000.

Other slashes recommended by Hauss included the reduction of office clerk services by six man-hours per day, the scaling-down of testing services and the establishment of a participant-funded after-school sports program at the junior high schools, replacing the one currently funded by the district.

King, Abbott and Baker were outspoken in their opposition to reductions in the programs.

According to Baker, the music cutbacks would "sound the death knell for music in our district, since the program is hanging by its fingernails as it is."

Abbott concurred, calling the music program "a basic learning subject and a good teaching tool. The youngsters involved benefit considerably and I feel it is necessary that we keep this (music) in the currivulum."

Abbott also expressed concern with the elimination of the custodial positions, questioning whether the district could afford to risk the further deterioration of facilities he says are already in need of repair.

"All we're doing is putting things off," Abbott said. "Something that might cost $1,000 to fix now might cost $15,000 to fix later. We need a good maintenence schedule now to prevent that."

ABBOTT CALLED THE present custodial workload "overwhelming" and said that the proposed cuts would make it even more so.

Under Hauss' proposed budget, the district would reduce its custodial force form 34 to 23.

After the first roll call vote on the passage of the preliminary budget, King called his dissenting vote "a protest vote."

"I don't agree with some areas that have been cut and others that have been left in," King said. "I'm concerned with the number of people we're talking about laying off. I realize this can be amended but I had roughly 24 hours to consider the layoff of, I don't know how many people."

Abbott, who was the only trustee to vote against the adoption of Hauss' preliminary budget in the second roll call, called his vote "a message to the superintendent and staff that I need more than 24 hours to make these momentous decisions."

Hauss' budget outline also called for the establishment of one eight-hour office clerk at the three junior high schools and one three-hour clerk at the three elementary schools with enrollments of 550 or more. This would represent a total of 33 man-hours per day, a reduction from the present 39.

ALSO, $6,000 WAS set aside for the establishment of the fee-funded after-school sports program, a figure King thought was far too high. King estimated that only about $1,000 would be necessary to get the program off the ground.

The board also heard a report on student suspensions for the past school year from Assistant Superintendent Ken Meinecke, who reported that 239 suspensions of a day or more were handed out in the district.

Of those, 62 were under the general category of "disrespect," 60 were for fighting, 46 for smoking, 18 for marijuana violations, ten for arson, and ten for theft, Meinecke said.

The district lost about $2,000 in funding from the state as the result of the absences, Meinecke added. School funding is determined on the basis of average daily attendence (ADA).

Four schools had no students suspended for one day or more, according to Meinecke — Quito, Capri, Castlemont and Marshall Lane.

LAST THURSDAY afternoon City Clerk Phyllis Acker set her name to the bonds for parking district 1A, all 348 of the bonds. The $1,668,360.28 in bonds were signed and affixed with the city seal (by Deputy Clerk Jeanne Sheehy) in two hours. Friday morning the cashier's check for the downtown parking district arrived and was deposited. A two-level parking deck will be constructed in the south parking lot of The Factory (hopefully by Christmas) and other parking space will be provided.

What's in and out of budget

THE BUDGET IN the Campbell elementary school district is balanced. At least for now. Latest staff recommendations added back more than $900,000 of the original cut proposals, including most busing costs. Staff is also recommending that San Tomas and Sherman Oaks schools not be closed this September.

Final approval of the budget and the cuts is up to the school board.

The reason the district could add back almost $1 million in costs and still come up with $1.5 million in cuts is because the original cutback proposal was for $2.3 million.

Added back were salary increases for the 1977-78 school year ($489,686), transportation ($192,000) half the substitute teachers (56,600), noon duty supervisors ($24,000) and some of the custodial services originally cut ($55,585). Also added back were three district office coordinators, in district car mileage expense, some clerical help and principal and secretary salaries for the two schools which won't be closing this year.

CUTBACKS PROPOSED in the latest budget include: summer school ($200,000), community services including summer recreation, after school sports (the district plans a fee program) and capital outlay ($201,271), reducing 13 school custodians ($140,991), eliminating the 4 percent teacher salary hike for 1978-79 ($267,127) and reducing two instrumental music teachers ($42,349).

Other cutbacks include the junior high school towel service ($18,500), elimination of six corporation yard employees ($80,973), about half of the substitute teachers ($53,350), and four aides in the educationally handicapped program ($24,517).

Study of old school could be underway next week

The engineering study of the old Campbell grammar school could be underway next week.

This Saturday, August 12 a four-member committee will be interviewing representatives of seven engineering firms who have expressed interest in the study. Earlier the City Council earmarked $10,000 to pay for scrutinizing the vacant school at the corner of Winchester and Campbell avenue.

The building, which belongs to the Campbell Union School District, has been declared surplus by school trustees and has been vacant for more than two years. Prior to that it was leased by West Valley College.

According to Building Official Wally Byron, the committee will spend about an hour with each representative this Saturday. That committee includes; Byron, Planning Director Art Kee, Mayor Dean Chamberlin and Vice Mayor Norm Paul.

The civil engineering, consulting and structural engineering firms include several from San Jose, one from Campbell plus companies in Oakland, San Francisco and Soquel.

If the committee makes a final selection Saturday it is expected to come before the City Council August 14 for ratification.

The study, expected to take about 90 days, will be done in two stages. A preliminary analysis will focus on the structural condition of the building and whether or not it can be brought up to the Uniform Building Code. If that study is favorable, engineers will proceed with a secondary analysis which will include the cost to the city for refurbishing the school building and in meeting physically handicapped and state energy requirements.

A delay in final budget hearings

Decisions on expanding local fire service, continuing the Fourth of July celebration and inaugurating a senior citizen drop-in center will have to wait. At least until September.

Final budget hearings were originally set for August 15-17 but City Manager Bob Stephens learned last week the city won't be getting income information from the county and state until late August.

"We've been told we'll be getting the assessed value (figures) from the assessor August 21," explained Administrative Assistant Terry Ellis Monday, The state will have information to us August 25," he added.

Stephens will be asking the City Council to postpone final budget hearings until after the Memorial Day weekend (Sept. 2-4).

Since July 1 the city has been operating on a preliminary budget based on estimates of local and state income.

Where have all the stories gone?

By PAT SAFFORD

THE CAMPBELL PREES has been very tight in recent weeks due to a strike at some of the paper mills which supply our company. That doesn't mean the paper has had one too many. In printing terms it means it's hard to find the stories for the ads.

We didn't announce the problem the first week because it was possible it would be settled by the next. It wasn't. Now, into the fourth week of the paper crunch, it's time for an explanation.

Because of the shortage we have had to tighten things up and haven't been able to include many stories we would normally cover. Like the explosion that took the roof off of City Hall or the account of that roving band of cats what made off with the RCA Victor dog on E. Campbell avenue (These were just rumors anyway, they didn't happen).

THE STORIES WE have been writing . . . but not running . . . will eventually get in the PRESS. "Things to do in July" may have to be retitled and the "What Independence Day Means To Me" feature may have to wait . . . about 11 months. But other stories which won't get outdated will eventually run.

We promise.

Just as soon as we have the space.

We hear you

8 percent in a year the district will try not to move the kids more than two times during their kindergarten through 6th grade years, he said. After 1979 the next school closing is set for 1981, Rescigno said.

Fifty dollars for attending a 10-minute meeting (Sanitary District 4)? Say . . . I'd like to get in on that kind of a job. I earn about that for an 8 hour day and I have to really work for my money. How does a guy go about getting into a spot like this?

CONSTRUCTION WORKER AND PROUD OF IT

Editor's note: An item on page 4 of today's PRESS explains that four of the Sanitary District 4 directors said they will not accept the $50 fee for that meeting. You can't "go about" getting on the board. Directors are traditionally the mayors of cities which the district serves . . . such as Campbell, San Jose, Los Gatos, etc. The mayors appoint someone to serve as director for the year and mayors usually appoint themselves to this post. They receive $50 per meeting up to a maximum of four meetings per month.

With the Campbell (elementary) school district butting back on busing, I just have one question; isn't it true that a state law says kids who live over a mile from the school have to be bused?

CURIOUS

Editor's note: According to Ron Rescigno, assistant superintendent, there is no such law.

If they (the school board) are going to start charging for buses then I think the citizens should charge the board rent for their offices. In other words, charge them for the privilege of serving. Also what additional costs will be balanced against the savings a school district receives by closing a school.? I'm talking about insurance, maintenance, etc.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Editor's Note: The district computes savings on closing school sites at $50,000 per year; almost exclusively salaries for a principal and a school secretary. According to Betty Brannan, acting business manager, the Campbell elementary district incurs a cost of about $7,400 yearly for maintenance and insurance costs for a vacant building . . . "as long as we own it." Increased costs of transportation, for busing students to a new school who used to walk, are hard to determine. District estimates are about $1.73 per mile for busing per student.

I think your moving your office out of Campbell was a dumb idea, and whoever thought of it should go take a cold shower and think again.

Shocked at move

EDITOR:

You can't imagine the shock when I learned that your Campbell PRESS was moving. You seemed to be a part of us and now you were gone. It will leave a large void for us as you have always been such a staunch friend and benefactor all through these past years.

I take this opportunity to thank you for the many ways that you have helped us through your paper. If we can help you in any way, please don't hesitate to call us.

Thank you again.

Irma A. Reese, Director
Campbell Progressive Seniors

Editor's note: We are not gone. The editorial offices are now based in Los Gatos but the staff is still very actively involved in Campbell. In fact, we spend more time running around the city since the move (It used to be easy to have people dropping into the office). We intend to continue covering the local scene and at least twice a day staff is in the city checking on what's happening. We're also as near as the phone the rest of the time. Just call 354-3900 and find out.

INSTALLING weatherstripping at the Perez home on Hazelwood avenue last week was Larry Latimore, a workman in the Citizens Home Energy Conservation project (CHEC). The local job last Thursday was a milestone for the federally-funded agency; the 1,000th home. The free insulation and weatherstripping service is available to low income families and seniors. Call 998-3020, ext. 547 weekdays for more information.

ENERGY COSTS can be saved by insulating the water heater and the aim of the Citizens Home Energy Conservation project is to cut costs for low income people. Workmen Fernando Betancourt and Tony Pedilla are shown working on the 1,000th home last Thursday. According to agency director John Masliah, "Low income poeple are least able to afford the rising energy costs." (Photography by Ed Souza)

NO CHARGES IN FIGHT DEATH

A 25-year-old Campbell man was released from custody last Thursday after being arrested on suspicion of voluntary manslaughter in the August 2 death of John P. Rogers, 31, of 680 Waldo road.

According to police reports the suspect, Gary L. Robinson, came to the aid of Rogers' 21-year-old wife when he saw Rogers grab her by the throat and start shaking her.

A fight ensued between the two men and Rogers was knocked to the ground. When police arrived in answer to a report of a fight they found Robinson spraying the unconscious Rogers with a garden hose in an attempt to revive him.

Paramedics were called to the scene and Rogers was taken by ambulance to Los Gatos Community Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

According to the coroner's report, Rogers died of a brain hemorrhage believed caused when he fell hitting his head on the bumper of a car or the pavement.

The District Attorney's office refused to press charges in the case stating Robinson was acting in self-defense. Witnesses testified Rogers started the altercation.

TOWNHOME DAMAGED

Vandals smashed windows and kicked holes in the walls of a townhouse under construction on Union avenue last Wednesday causing an estimated $500 to $600 in damages.

The townhouse is being built by the Richard Millen Construction Company.

ANOTHER CHARGE ADDED TO LIST

A 48-year-old San Jose gardener reportedly tried to give a phony name to Campbell police last Friday to avoid being arrested on outstanding traffic warrants. It didn't work.

Instead the man was taken into custody for $600 in outstanding warrants . . . and for furnishing false information to a police officer.

ANYONE WANT TO CLAIM A SHIRT?

Police have an expensive man's wool shirt and a watch cap in the evidence locker and would like to find the owner, believed responsible for a break-in at Campbell High School and Country Village Market last Saturday morning.

According to reports, police received a report of a possible break-in at the market, 1711 S. Winchester, about 5 a.m. and when they investigated they found the front window broken out and a trail of bakery goods leading across the church parking lot next door and into some bushes. At the end of the trail was the shirt (containing some of the baked goods) and the cap.

Police believe that burglary may be related to one which occurred at about 4 a.m. that morning at Campbell High.

Vandalism in Moreland is way down

Local school district shows the way

By PAT SAFFORD

THE COST OF vandalism in the Moreland School District has gone down steadily in the last three years and Superintendent Dick Davis thinks he knows why. First, the schools are looking "cared for" with increased maintenance and, second, students have a financial stake in keeping vandalism costs down.

The year-end report released last week shows total vandalism and theft losses at $10,698.16 for the year, almost half of that for the 1976-77 school year. Of the damages, $525.19 was recovered through reinbursement by parents of youngsters who caused some of the damage.

"We're really bringing maintenance, painting and the grounds up to snuff," Davis explained last week. "and I think that makes a difference." The face-lift for schools was funded with part of the $90 per student override taxes approved by voters three years ago.

MORELAND STARTED a student incentive program three years ago to reduce vandalism and it appears to be a big success.

The district allows $2.50 per student per school year and anything unspent at the end of the year, for vandalism or theft, goes to the school to use as they see fit.

Some schools use the funds for carpeting or for other supplies and equipment and some have used it for trips or special student activities.

Total number of incidents reported has gone down, but not by the same impressive total. They decreased from 302 to 247.

"THE INCIDENTS have only gone down by 20 percent," Davis explained, "but that is because of our (new) method of reporting. Now, gum in a lock would be reported as a vandalism incident. It wouldn't have in the past."

The two junior high schools had the most reported damages and highest number of incidents. Castro Junior High reported $2,625 in loss, including $1,843 in broken glass while Rogers had $1,504 in total damage and $848 of that in broken windows.

Lowest vandalism was at Anderson School with $54 for the year and at Moreland School (which was leased by adult education) with $67, all of it a theft loss.

Newsbriefs

THIRD FIRE STATION EYED

City officials authorized staff to begin preliminary work on acquiring a site for a future fire station at the corner of Victor and Campbell avenues at their last meeting.

That station, which would serve the west end of town, is still several years in the future.

First priority is for a fire station on Michael drive, near the Pruneyard, to replace the old station on Central avenue.

The city is now negotiating for that property.

SPLIT VOTE ON GENERAL PLAN CHANGE

With petitions and appearances before the Planning Commission and City Council, residents argued that a 3.3 acre parcel at Union avenue and McGlincey should not be high density residential.

Both official bodies agreed and last week the City Council voted 3-2 to change the designation of that area to low-medium density residential in the General Plan. Voting against the motion were Councilmen Ralph Doetsch and Rusty Hammer.

City officials received a petition signed by 74 residents of the area, including Central Park drive, Parkdale and Union avenue. The petition stated opposition to high density zoning for the undeveloped southwest corner parcel. Increased traffic was the major concern cited by speakers at the meeting.

SENIOR TAXI SERVICE

A city-subsidized taxi service for the elderly could get underway here soon.

Bids were scheduled to be opened yesterday on taxi service providing a maximum of 650 one-way trips monthly to those 60 years and older.

According to Terry Ellis, administrative assistant, two alternative plans are being considered: a strictly local service within the city limits and, alternate A, which would also include nearby hospitals and shopping centers.

The state-funded program would include a 50 cent charge per ride to the senior with the city picking up the balance.

City Councilmen are expected to discuss the bids at the August 14 meeting.

ANY KINDERGARTENERS AT YOUR HOME?

Cambrian School District officials announced this week that children planning to enter kindergarten this September should be registered as soon as possible.

Media, tourism: topics for Meredith president

SAN JOSE AREA business leaders got a chance to meet a new figure in the local publishing scene last week, as Robert A. Burnett, president and chief executive officer of Meredith Corporation, paid a visit to Santa Clara Valley.

Meredith, a multi-media corporation which publishes Better Homes and Gardens magazine, among others, recently acquired Suburban Newspaper Publications, Inc., which publishes this newspaper. Meredith is headquartered in Des Moines, Iowa.

Burnett appeared in the "Distinguished Speaker Series" sponsored by the San Jose Chamber of Commerce. At the Chamber's Aug. 1 luncheon, he described not only Meredith's operations in the magazine, book, newspaper, radio and TV fields, but spoke about the vast potential of the tourism industry in Santa Clara Valley. He is also national chairman for Discover America Travel Organization, Inc., a leader in promoting U.S. travel.

Defective tires: whose fault are they?

Send all mail for this column to P.O. Box 311, Palo Alto, CA 94302, or call 494-1858 for consumer advice.

After having three of four of the Firestone 500 steel belted radial tires on my car fail, I wrote a letter to the factory to complain and inform them of the negative response I got from the local Firestone dealer. I got a form letter response that inferred that it was my abuse that caused the tires to fail. No mention of the factory's interest in covering its franchised dealers' product liability responsibilities.

I have decided to go ahead with a small claims court action against the Firestone factory rep and the local Firestone dealer. I have the failed tires that show clearly that it's a product liability, not misuse. I've also secured an expert witness to testify in my behalf. What do you think of my chances for recovery?

Ms. Tina Formyle, Mountain View

Sounds as though you have a 105 percent chance of winning. The response letter you got from Firestone parallels the statements of their vice president, John F. Floberg, who blamed the many tire failures on "consumer neglect of proper inflation" and also attributed the high "adjustment rate" for the 500's to an unreasonably high level of consumer expectation for their "top of the line" product. Fifteen additional deaths have recently been reported directly attributable to this tire and we, Consumers United, hope for an early recall.

I bought a used car that seemed pretty good, complete with nearly new Michelin tires and special wheels. Part of the purchase agreement stipulated that the tires be rotated and other minor repairs and adjustments be performed. I left the car for these services and when I picked it up, noticed that the tires and wheels had been switched and I no longer had what I purchased. I now had old Firestone 500's on the car — the dealer tells me I am "nuts." Three of my friends are witness to this A.M.C. dealer's trickery. What can I do?

Ruth McKuehn, Santa Clara

File the necessary complaint forms with the State Department of Motor Vehicles, the District Attorney's office and file, if necessary, in the small claims court for recovery. You have been subjected to outright fraud.

This is a common practice in the used car trade and careful attention should be given, notes taken of all unboltables on the car at time of purchase.

We suggest you also have the D.M.V. run a history and odometer check on this car to determine any undisclosed information on its past. The form (D.M.V.) to fill out is #443. You should state on this form that you suspect the odometer has been altered. All used car buyers should do this.

I bought some upholstered furniture that was of good quality, the stuff that was delivered was junk. I told the delivery man of the mistake and he said he would get the store owner to deliver what I had purchased and at that time he would pick up the "wrong" furniture. After two weeks of calling, I finally got hold of the owner and he told me that I was given what I had seen in the store and he _____ didn't want to hear any more from me. Then he hung up. I'm 72 years old and no longer able to trot down to the store and bash the owner. Can you help me?

Mrs. D. Ingram, Santa Clara

No problem. Your receipt indicated a brand of furniture other than what was delivered to you which made it easy. You will have the right furniture delivered in short order with the lesser quality stuff picked up at that time. Also 40 percent of the purchase price and all delivery charges will be returned to you at that time — G'bye, kids!

Fool's games lead to trouble for Virg

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Handwriting on the wall is best seen from a distance, Ari. Step back and perspective broadens from one point to many. Take your pick, each angle reveals a different truth. Altogether they give you needed answer.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Time to relinquish that which you hold most dear, Taurus. In return, you receive advice which will help you cut through knot of current problem. You understand that life is a full circle — not a vicious one. On last day close an old book.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): It's not only how you get there that matters, Gem, it's also how you land. Test for rusty hinges by putting gear down early. Precise planning is key to success. By end of week you're once again taxiing and ready for take-off. Bon voyage!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Outward bound, Moon-baby, you discover that home ties go deeper than you had realized. No need to uproot whole tree just to feel a little breeze from other side of fence. Slow down. Gradual growth lasts longer.

LEO(July 23-Aug. 22): Lay back, Leo, but not so far that you're out of sight. A too-relaxed attitude now can put you too far behind later. Double efforts to relate talent to income. A full purse makes for a light heart, and last day should find you whistling.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Guard valuables Especially mind, body, heart and soul. Would-be thief may wear disguise that dazzles. Be perceptive. Sharpen own wit. Play fool's game, Virgo, and you wind up in corner. Alone.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Leapin' lizards, Libra, how complicated can you get? Mighty complicated, it would seem. Time to simplify — so cut in, cut back and then cut out. Drop that which drains you dry. Being picky now, Libra, saves you from massive entanglement later. On last day do some badly needed pruning.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Observe breakdowns (mechanical, moral, spiritual, physical) as warning signals. Inner peace found only after you stop spinning your wheels, Scorp. Study Libra message. Week ends on note of wisdom.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You should be on an even keel this week, Saj, so use balmy calm to renew old friendship/flame. That which blossoms may eventually bear fruit. On last day you are offered something sweet. Taste it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Even without the usual fairytale cast of characters, Cap, a happy ending is possible. Concentrate on positive aspects of surroundings and your little drama will take new, beneficial turn. Before week is over, adventure knocks on your chamber door. Never say: "Nevermore."

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Locking away vital part of self won't make itch go away, Aquari. Sooner or later you're going to give in and scratch. Compromise. Be bending, you can at least have your inner and outer selves on speaking terms with each other.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Fish gotta swim, Pisces, but not always up stream. Paddle with the current this week. And float. Easy going now helps build energy for hectic days ahead. On last day, you spot something in the bulrushes.

El Ranchito aluminum drive

An aluminum can drive for August is being sponsored by the El Ranchito Parents Club. All proceeds will go toward field trips for the El Ranchito children. Penny pinchers

Dear Shirley,

Mrs. Brubaker (who had the trouble with the 2 quarts of liquid after roasting a 12 pound turkey) was absolutely right! Not only are most turkeys frozen before they're sold, but the ones that are marked 'self basting' are filled with a fluid that you pay dearly for by the pound. That same basting fluid will add to the liquid around the bird after it's cooked.

And have you ever looked at the ingredients that go into the basting fluid? They read like a drug store with chemical additives and highly saturated fats.

There's just no way the consumer is going to win these days! Too bad with prices so high!

Marjorie Stokes,
San Jose

Very depressing! Perhaps the best solution is for us all to become vegetarians. Zucchini anyone?

Father follows son into County Bowl

By DICK SPARRER
Sports Editor

IT'S NOT AT all uncommon to find a young man following in the footsteps of his father when pursuing his interests in sports. Young men often attempt to emulate their fathers.

But there's a father-son tandem around San Jose that got things a bit confused — there's a father following in his son's footsteps!

That's right — Dick Bondelie of Lincoln high school will follow in the footsteps of his son Ken this Thursday night when he takes part in the fourth annual Santa Clara County All-Star Football Bowl at Spartan Stadium.

Ken Bondelie, a star offensive lineman for Del Mar high school in his prep playing days, was a member of the South squad in the first ever PAL Bowl in 1974.

And four years later Dick Bondelie will be following in his son's footsteps when he jogs to the South team's sidelines for the game's opening kick-off.

But Dick Bondelie won't be playing in the Bowl game for high school seniors — the veteran coach will be at the helm of the South squad!

Bondelie and Lick's Steve Mumma will be the co-head coaches for the South team when it takes on the North in the annual battle. Overfelt's John Cali, Milpitas' Bob Crabtree, Del Mar's Ron Leimbach and Lincoln's Dave Doak will round out the South staff.

HOMESTEAD'S Mort VandenBerghe and Peterson's John Sepulveda will be the co-head coaches for the North team that will be out to even the overall series at 2-2. Al Holland and Bill Chambers of Peterson and Lew Roche and Don Romero of Homestead will round out the North staff.

The South won the first all-star game back in 1974 48-34 and won again in 1977 27-14. The North's only win in the series came in 1975 when it won 22-21.

More than 25,000 fans have witnessed the annual All-Star game and a large crowd is expected on Thursday for the 8 p.m. kick-off. All tickets sell for $2.50 and proceeds will benefit the youth activities of the PAL and the Almaden Valley. For ticket information call 277-4725.

Both line-ups are filled with all-leaguers and most valuable players as the teams ready for the Thursday test.

"These are super kids," said VandenBerghe, for nine years the head coach at Homestead. "It's a super experience just working with these kind of kids.

"We're very pleased with their attitude," he added. "They came in and have worked hard. They've done everything we've asked of them. It's going to be a helluva game.

"There's a certain amount of pride involved in that the CCS champions have all come from this end of the valley," added the Mustang coach. "But we've never done as well as we'd have liked to in all-star games. The kids want to show them that they can play pretty good football too."

Salazars drive Barons to softball win

PETE AND Jess Salazar each crashed home runs and Dave Salazar lobbed a five-hitter to lead the SMS Barons to a lopsided 17-2 victory over the Sticks and Stones in the Campbell men's B slow-pitch softball league.

D. Salazar, John Salazar, Mark Salazar, Dennis Wong, Randy Armer and Rich Sanchez each smacked doubles in the 15 hit attack in the win for SMS. Glen Emerick tripled for the losers.

In other B league play last week, Mitch Sano homered to lead Yin Yang past the No Names 9-8. Ron Herrera doubled and tripled and David Donley and Rick Stasi each doubled in the loss.

Tim Woodside and Jim Leitner each stroked doubles to take Killroy to an 8-2 win over the New York Lifers. Keith Valk homered for the Lifers.

Togo's of Campbell whipped Baver Concrete 13-8 behind Brad Chaboya's 10-hitter. Phil Elkins tripled, Bob Hagg doubled twice and Tony Piccarilo doubled for Baver.

Ed Cina flipped an eight-hitter and Ken Cina and Rich Cannady each doubled to lead Kamper Kits to a 5-4 win over Steve Peacock.

IN THE Campbell men's C league, Roger Hanson threw a five-hitter to lead the Campbell Police past Bill's Transmission 7-4. Steve Dippell tripled and Kevin Austin and Dennis Lewis each doubled in the win. Harry Jansen and Ed Hansen each doubled in the loss.

Bob Hansen homered to pace the Ball Busters to a 10-8 win over Noel Brown #2 despite doubles by Mike Blacker and Tom Grant.

Chuck Reich's triple and Russ Parker's nine-hitter led Noel Brown #1 past the Tonko Blues 4-1. Parker fanned four.

John Schriefer tripled and doubled and Gilbert Gonzales, Dennis Keveren and Rick Grozinski each doubled for Kragen Auto in a 9-7 win over the Tonko Blues.

Perry grand slam keys Del Mar play-off win

By MICHAEL BARNHART

THE ear-to-ear smile on Del Mar manager John Dorr's face told the story. His squad had just beaten powerful Overfelt for the third straight night after a series-opening loss to claim San Jose's PAL-Joe DiMaggio baseball championship.

"The kids really earned this," Dorr exclaimed moments after his troops won the fourth game 6-3.

Kirk Perry's third-inning grand slam, a 395-foot shot over the centerfield fence, off losing pitcher Maurice Medina was the big blow in the contest.

Bob Rocha, picked up from Samuel Ayer, blasted a solo homer in the second for Overfelt.

Del Mar's Jeff Kefauver went the distance for the win, but needed a couple defensive gems from teammates to prevent an early exit.

Rightfielder Dan Vaughan threw out Ralph Malloy attempting to score from second on Robert Trujillo's fifth-inning single, and centerfielder Larry Terronez raced to the 380-foot sign to haul down a seventh-inning blast by Malloy.

Kefauver wasn't as successful in game one. Overfelt pounded him, Larry Ragusa and Rob Lynch 13-2.

Andy Gonzales lined a grand slam over the left-field barrier to ice the game for Overfelt.

Mario Martinez and Medina gave winning pitcher Trujillo plenty of bat support with three and two hits, respectively.

THE momentum shifted in game two.

Del Mar scored four times in the first inning against Mt. Pleasant import Steve Faughnan and coasted to an 18-6 victory.

Perry was the winning pitcher.

Del Mar was coasting on the strength of a nine-run third inning in game three. But DM needed superb relief pitching from Lynch, who got out of a bases-loaded jam in the sixth, and two fine defensive plays from reserve second baseman Jerome Miyahara to get out of a similar situation in the seventh and win 10-6.

Pat Whitaker pitched five innings for the decision.

Del Mar's Ron Hansen smacked a grand slam and Overfelt's Malloy hit a two-run homer.

Overfelt's Medina, the youngest player on either roster may have been the most outstanding player in the series.

The 15-year-old first baseman was seven for 14, drove in five runs and made numerous good defensive plays.

Another player who shined bright throughout the series was DM shortstop Sal Ribera.

Ribera, who played second base for Oak Grove during the season, was called upon when Del Mar's shortstop Kevin Gipson was injured in the division play-offs.

Ribera hit safely in each game and played flawless defense.

Del Mar travels to the Presidio in San Francisco this week for the state PAL tournament. The tourney is slated for Aug. 9-13.

Overfelt was involved in a four-team, double-climination tourney last weekend in Daly City.

Champions get together for Pony TOC at Campbell's John D. Morgan field

THE Campbell-Moreland Pony League will host its annual Invitational Tournament of Champions this week at the John D. Morgan Park Pony Field.

The double elimination tournament, which began Tuesday at 5:30 p.m. and continues through Wednesday, Aug. 23, includes championship teams from six area Pony Leagues.

Besides the 1978 champion Campbell-Moreland Mets, other leagues participating are Santa Clara Mission, Santa Clara City, Santa Teresa, Los Gatos and San Jose Westside.

Weekend games will be played at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

LL games on KRVE

KRVE radio (95.3 FM), in conjunction with GAP Sports Productions, will broadcast District 44 Tournament of Champions games Monday through Friday beginning at 3 p.m. The tape delayed broadcasts will run until 5 p.m.

Mitch Lorain and Dave Silver will handle the play-by-play.

IN OTHER Campbell-Moreland Pony news, the Shamrocks avenged two early season defeats by knocking off Watsonville's 13-year-old Pony team 1-0 last Sunday at Morgan Park.

Jo Ray Marrujo flipped a three-hitter and Dave Bryant drilled a run scoring single in the first inning to highlight the game win for the Shamrocks.

Another Campbell 13-year-old Pony team knocked off Mid-County 6-3 last week.

The Shamrocks are now headed for the Watsonville Invitational Round Robin tournament this weekend, Aug. 19 and 20. In the first tournament for 13-year-olds last month, the Shamrocks finished second to Watsonville.

THERE IS A DIFFERENCE

The best thing about us is that we hire ONLY experienced Real Estate Agents. Read the paper, schools advertise Real Estate license for under $50. For $50 does that make them knowledgeable agents?? WE at CASTLE PROPERTIES (smi) don't think so. And that's why only experienced Agents are allowed to work here. You can be assured that in selecting CASTLE PROPERTIES (smi) to represent you, you're getting experienced and competent Real Estate Agents.
